Thurston's Growth Is Evident in Students

Thurstonites — can you possibly imagine yourself attending a school having only seven classrooms and a teaching staff of only seven instructors? Well, this was precisely the case when our school first opened in 1953. Students attended classes in the seven rooms comprising what we now call the science wing. Each and every morning the seventeen teachers were required to check into the high school office — the small lounge across from the cafeteria in the C-Hall. Through

as Well as in Size

the past eleven years, our school has been expanding without many of us actually realizing it. Today we have a teaching staff of eighty-nine and a modern school building comprised of more than seventy-five classrooms, two large well-equipped gymnasiums, an auditorium and several offices. One might say Thurston is a school of which each and every one of its 1550 students can truly be proud.

Scholarship

Administrative Body, Teaching Staff Help To

Being offered classes ranging from Trigonometry to Bachelor Arts, students at Thurston have wide opportunities to prepare for successful careers in almost any field of work. Each and every year, Thurstonites enter colleges all over the United States, many enter the business world and still others find jobs elsewhere. It is only through our administrative body and teaching staff that Thurston's students have been able to succeed in these many fields. Thurston can boast of outstanding students like National Merit Scholarship Finalists David Goode and Jennie Maclean. We have many Co-op students who not only attend school but who also work and are trained on jobs which they have chosen for their futures. It has been our teaching staff which through its vocations — not avocations — has made all of this possible.

Develop Scholarship in Thurston's Students

Friendship

Through Years of Books, Learning, Students

Whether it be in the crowded halls, in sun-filled classrooms, at extra curricular activities or at exciting sports events, Thurstonites are united through friendship. While walking down our hallowed halls, we don't find "a student" walking to class. We find "students" conversing of the day's trials and tribulations, its joys and sorrows and its students and faculty, while maneuvering through crowded halls to get to class on time. If students have outside problems, principals, teachers and counselors become friends. Students grow through other students and through adults; here at Thurston, our administration and our faculty see to it that students develop that needed growth to go out into a complex world made up of complex people. They teach kids friendship. They develop in us a warm feeling for all of mankind. Because of them we can grow up loving.

Not Only Achieve Knowledge but Friendship

Leadership

United Student Body Works To Build

Tomorrow's Leaders

We can't all be satellites or followers. We must have leaders. Our nation has leaders, our state has its leaders as has our community — and Thurston has its leaders. Our competent administrative body, our well-informed faculty and our capable student leaders see to it that Thurston is united as one body of individuals, just as our country is united as a group of states. Through learning we achieve leadership — we grow and we use leadership to develop other needed qualities required of a good and knowledgeable citizen. Here at Thurston, students have many opportunities in which to gain that needed leadership. We offer Student Council, class officers, clubs, sports activities and classroom discussions led by individuals. All of these activities are under the guidance of competent staff members — our leaders. Now we are achieving those qualities of tomorrow's leaders.

Scholarship

Leaders of Tomorrow Are Given Solid

Educational Backgrounds Through Vital Academics

As the diplomas are handed out each spring, the important years of preparation at Thurston are ended and graduates look ahead to adult life. The three previous years were the busy years of laying a good foundation for what is to come later in life. Academic growth in all fields of study is that foundation for bigger and better things in adulthood.

Thurstonites choose the stepping stones they need to help them grow in knowledge by selecting courses that will teach them the necessary things for being the leaders of tomorrow. Experience in many areas of education prepare students for the decisions they will have to make concerning later employment and further education.

Growth is important during these years of high school. Maturity and friendships are developed in the three years at Thurston. But perhaps most important is the growth of mind gained by students during high school years, necessary for a prosperous adult life.

Without the help of office workers, like Mrs. Betty Niles and Mrs. Betty Stephens, it would be impossible for Thurston to run.

The South Redford School Board shows a deep interest in the schools under its jurisdiction. Frequent meetings keep members up to date on school happenings. Thurston's new administration has been very successful this year. With an expanded school came a need for more administrative help. The co-principals have developed many new ideas to help the students as well as the faculty of Thurston.

Extensive English Program Helps Students

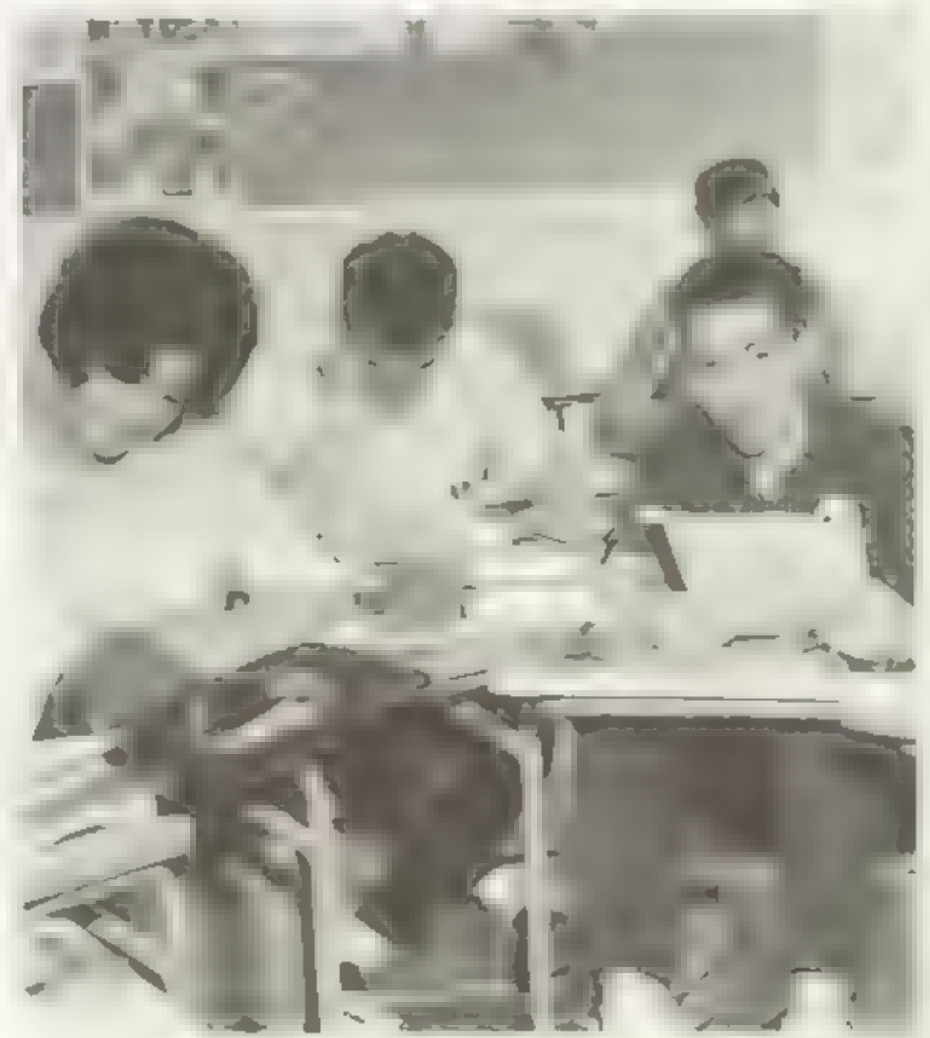

Some things just can't be avoided and book reports assigned in Common Learnings fall into this category. Chuck Glette looks over reading possibilities provided in Mr. Alpern's class.

In these modern times, a solid English background is almost a necessity for people in all walks of life. Lawyers, teachers, journalists, politicians and businessmen are only a few types of people which require in their profession a good, daily usage of our language.

Thurston students are fortunate that they are offered the large variety of subjects listed under English. Among these are Speech, Composition, Literature, Drama, Journalism, Senior English and Great Books, all taught by a highly competent staff of teachers.

Two years of Common Learnings plus one other course in English is all that is needed for graduation. Common Learnings, a two hour class, includes literature, social studies, geography, English and current events. This class provides a chance for the practical application of these subjects and also allows the student to use his knowledge of the English language on a graded basis.

More and better opportunities are opened to men and women with a strong command of our language. Later on in life, when high school is just a memory, the importance of knowing good English will be clearer to us.

Future newspaper reporters aren't the only people who participate in the journalism program. These classes also provide an excellent opportunity for those students trying to improve their writing skills. Here a group looks over a journalism paper.

Development of the arts is an extremely important part of Thurston's curriculum. Drama, painting, sculpting and all forms of music are designed especially for those students whose interests lead to the finer arts.

Under the direction of Miss Stanton, drama classes learn make-up, scenery, costuming and a variety of other things connected with the theater. Many students from these classes take active parts in various stage presentations.

Art courses offer students an opportunity to express themselves in a number of ways. The natural ability of the student is refined and improved by Mr. Pinkston, Mr. Tye and Mr. Boyle, art teachers.

The Thurston choirs, directed by Mr. Roth, provide a happy, but exhilarating break in the day. Here, the best voices in the school are joined together.

The bands, under the leadership of Mr. Stephens, and the orchestra, headed by Mr. Roth, give the student instrumentalists a chance to perform.

The art rooms of Thurston are always among the busiest spots in the school. Students work on numerous activities ranging from paintings to arts and crafts projects. Here Donna Vernal puts the finishing touches on one of her many accomplishments.

Key to Future Is Available Through Science

Tim Schrader examines a microscopic specimen for his science class. The million and one things invisible to the naked eye can be seen with the help of a microscope. An entirely di-

The growth of the science field within the past twenty years is nearly unbelievable. The great rapidity with which this growth is continuing is equally as astonishing.

Thurston High School, realizing the need for skilled and educated people in this field, has strengthened its science program all the more. Chemistry, Physics, Biology, Physical Science and Astronomy present a well-rounded plan for students interested in any phase of science. The program has aroused interests of tomorrow's leaders, who have successfully made various experiments and examinations in these classes.

Thurston provides for its students' lives after graduation by offering courses which prepare them for that later life. A wealth of knowledge, whether it be found in the kitchen or in the library, is offered.

Future wives and mothers plan for family situations through Home Economics and Child Care classes. Sewing, meal planning, cooking and caring for small children are the major areas covered. Bachelor Arts teaches the male population of Thurston similar chores.

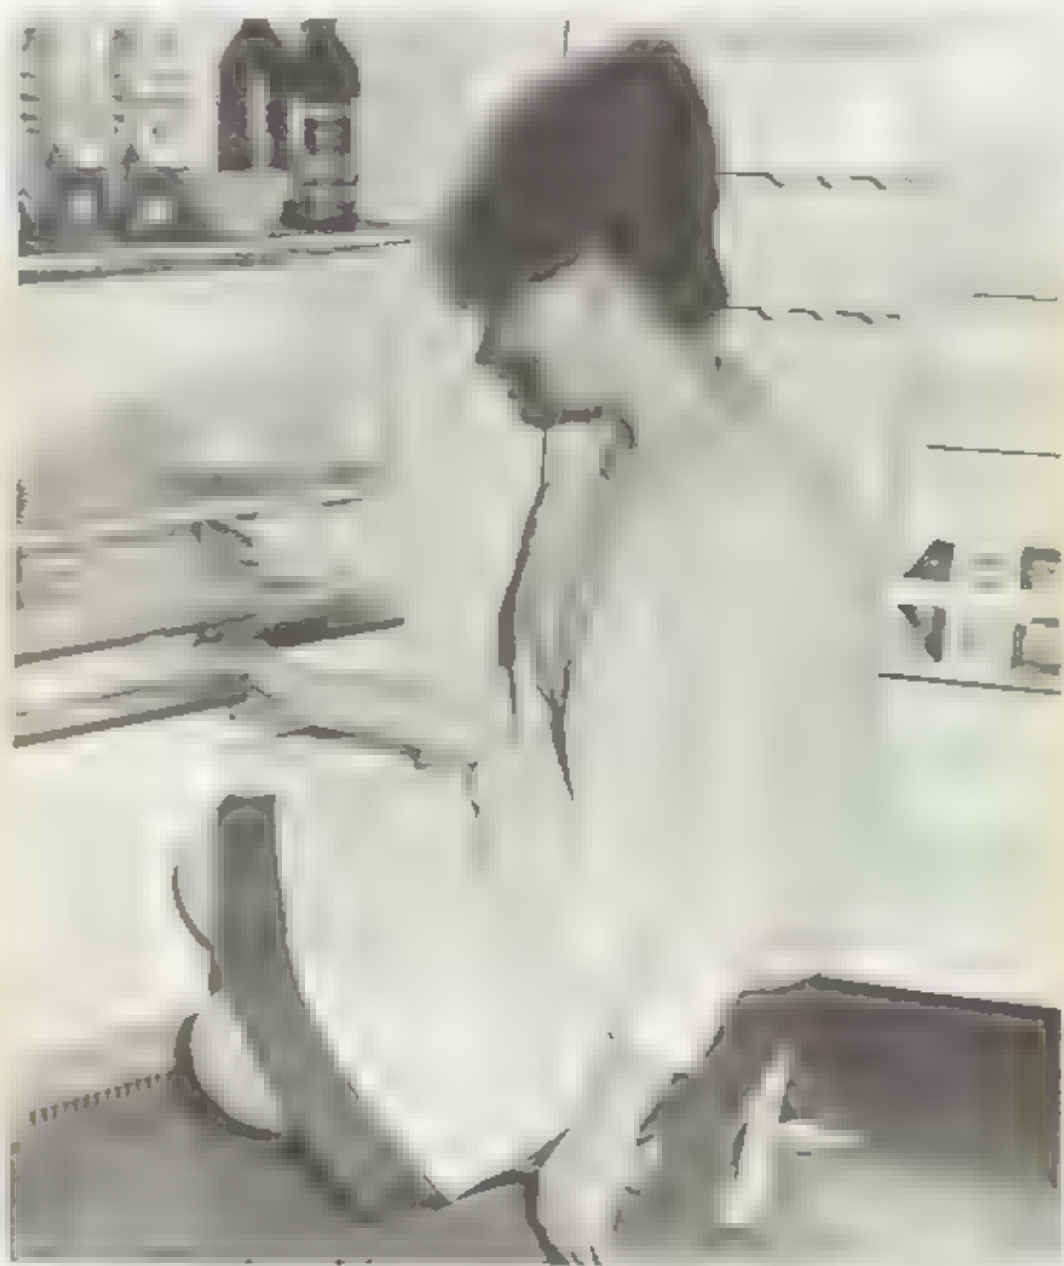

Perhaps the most indispensable room at Thurston is the library. Students following all programs meet here to study.

Classes like World Geography help to make current events and the world situation clearer and more interesting.

Competitive Spirit Is Encouraged Through

"Pull Aim. Shoot." When the weather is warm enough and the sun is shining, the targets go up and the girls go out. Archery, along with baseball, field hockey and tennis, is a very popular sport in girls' gym classes. The girls take to the gym when the snow flies. Here they take part in other individual and team sports. Meanwhile, on the opposite side of the gym, the boys are busy with weight-lifting, basketball and wrestling.

Three short whistles, followed by "Everyone in the pool," is a cry not strange to those students in Advanced Swimming. Here, Ken Wiebeck displays excellent form, answering Mr. Mracna's whistle. A cool dip in the pool is a refreshing break in a day filled with algebra problems and French verbs. A lot of fun and pure pleasure come along with improving swimming strokes and diving form. Thurston students give the pool a good workout.

Physical Education

No matter where sports interests lie, the Thurston Physical Education program is bound to meet them. Many students continue on with the program after they have completed the Sophomore gym course required for graduation.

If the water is what you long for, Advanced Swimming is the course to take. In this class lots of fun and laughs come along with the new strokes and stunts learned.

Team sports, such as basketball, volleyball, baseball and football, are all covered in gym classes, as well as individual sports like tennis, golf and bowling. Social Dancing is a popular course for those students looking for the right steps to the standard dances.

Muscles hard as rocks is the goal for many boys in the gym program. Dale LaBumbard demonstrates his skill to Joe Camilleri.

There are a wide variety of math courses to choose from at Thurston. Such subjects as Geometry, many commercial math courses, Algebra I and II and Trigonometry are offered. With mathematics, the universal language and a tremendous key to the future, many fields are opened. Today's students will have to meet the many new careers being developed for the future in the science of math.

Interest, as well as skill, is combined in this department. Last year, many students visited the Math and Science Exhibition at Cobo Hall. New computers, robots and other items of interest were featured. For those who excel in working at numbers, the Michigan Math Prize Competition is offered, along with scholarships. A math workshop meets after school and is available for those needing help or special attention.

Through the axioms and logic learned in mathematics, a stronger ability to reason correctly and think clearly is obtained. With the aid and guidance of Thurston's math personnel, students gain a good foundation for later endeavors.

Thurston's math program helps students solve the mystery of the slide rule. Two students, Jan Ward and Lynda Campbell, agree that it isn't as difficult as it looks. Numerous courses from algebra to trig help math-minded students for the future.

"The sum of the three angles in a triangle equals 180 degrees," explains Gary Cooper to Mike Johnson. Memorizing theorems, lots and lots of board work and understanding proofs may not be the most fun in the world, but for some reason Geometry classes succeed every year in having a large number of participants. Students, realizing the terrific need for a sound mathematical background in future careers, are fortunate to have available to them, a program as complete as the one offered at Thurston.

Business students learn that shorthand takes much practice.

As Harvey Lytle and Terry Frazer carry two typewriters down the hall, a Thurstonite might ask, "What's going on?"

There could be no Thurston without the tremendous assistance and cooperation given by the maintenance and kitchen workers. These people work together for the benefit of the student body and teachers, performing innumerable tasks each day.

Transportation to and from school is provided by the drivers who faithfully pick students up no matter how cold or icy it might be. These same men also make class field trips possible.

Hot lunches for the student body are available through Thurston's kitchen staff. The cooks, trying to please everyone, offer two lines with a wide variety of choices. Keeping a building as large as Thurston clean is not easy. This year, due to construction, it has been even harder. The maintenance help has done a wonderful job of keeping halls and classrooms clean. Thurstonites appreciate the jobs done by these people and want to thank them again and again for their sincerity.

Activities

Fond Memories, School Spirit, Excitement

Increase With Extracurricular Activities

To be a student at Thurston is to be a part of Thurston and to grow through the activities which are centered around the school.

To be part of Thurston is to meet and make new friends, to learn to live with others and to get along with them — to grow socially.

This advancement in social sophistications, along with a growth in school spirit, is characteristic of extra-curricular activities which fill the life of a high school student.

By taking part in these activities, students at Thurston become leaders, people to be followed by incoming classes. As they graduate, they leave the marks of their growth — the Homecoming games they fought and the dances at which they crowned their queen, the pep dances at which they informally congregated, the Senior Play they worked hard at, the last Prom at which they dreamt

Memories, though, are all part of growing. Upon them are laid the cornerstones of our lives. Through them we grow.

Ski Club Feats First Big Dance of Year

In all aspects, the Ski Club Dance was a success! Being the first dance of the year, it attracted a large portion of the student body and many of the faculty, who, looking for a good time, were not disappointed. Also very evident at this dance were many graduates of the past June, still partially "tied" to the halls of Thurston High

Rain, Gray Skies Don't Dampen Homecoming

A winning float was built by the energetic Sophomores

Homecoming is always a happy time, no matter how uncooperative the local weatherman may be. The rain, which was so evident at Homecoming, 1963, did not, however, dampen the spirits of any true Thurstonite, though not as much could be said about the floats which were in the parade to the football field. Many decorations were well soaked before the activities began, and though the wind blew in buckets of that very wet rain, not one convertible top was up. At the field, a crowd was already waiting, and students anxiously judged each entry. Final judgment, though, was passed by Mr. Frank Block, Principal. For the second year in a row, the Sophomore class float captured top honors.

During the game, the rain did not let up, and players slipped and slid in the mud. Though the well-dampened cheerleaders kept the spirits of the crowd high, the visage of the sun near the end of the game brought many more smiles, and even shed a different light on the scoreboard which in turn told of the Eagle's defeat.

At half-time, Homecoming Queen Barbara Deidrich and her court of four princesses were introduced to the crowd, whose smiles showed their enthusiastic approval.

Rain and gray skies were not allowed to dampen the spirits of the large crowd on hand for the thrills and excitement that day

This year's Homecoming court was made up of five lovely Thurstonites: last year's queen Pam McCallum and her escort Bill Lambert. Senior Princess Bev Kieffaber and Ken Wiebeck. Senior Princess Joyce Holda and Paul Sadows, our Queen

Barb Diedrich and Al Bush, Junior Princess Barb Emerson and John Christianson, and Sophomore Princess Barb DeLorme and Toni Adamson

'Teahouse' Brings Splendor of Orient to Thurston Stage

Expense paid transportation to Okinawa was given to the enthralled audiences who viewed "Teahouse of the August Moon." The rollicking rendition of the novel by Vern Sneider was presented as the all-school play. The cast projected an astounding Oriental atmosphere and gained an appreciation of another culture.

The story set all minds to thinking about the implications of bringing democracy to a simple village in Okinawa. Prized major roles were captured by Al Karr, as bumbling Captain Fisby, while boisterous Colonel Purdy was portrayed by John Tyler. Fragile as the Lotus Blossom she played, Sharon Pulice daintily executed geisha girl practices, as Peng Ng (Sakini) interpreted to his heart's content. Indeed, the people of Topiki village would have acclaimed our cast. Each curtain fall drew audience raves for undoubtedly one of the finest plays our stage has ever hosted.

As Peng watches unhappily, Lotus Blossom (Sharon Pulice) says farewell to her Captain.

The Teahouse of the August Moon is a tender dream as Lotus Blossom pantomimes the tea ceremony. The villagers, resplendent in their white kimonos and hakama are Leslie Proctor, Stan Jakubiak, Jon Aubrey, Tom Dorton, Sue Hopkinson, Dave Emmit and Don Chadwick.

Dressed as befitting a geisha girl, Lotus Blossom accepts a gift of Idac, but not of love from Seiko (Pete Manolagas) for Fisby has won her heart.

Happy Crowd Makes Hootenanny Huge Success

The audience just wouldn't be satisfied the night of the Ski Club Hootenanny. The amateur entertainers performed encore after encore in answer to the loud applause and cheers they received. As the first program of its kind ever to take place at Thurston, the hootenanny ran in complete accordance with the new trend toward folk music. Those who appeared on the stage hailed from Eastern Michigan University, other Detroit high schools and of course Thurston. An extra treat was when Mr. John Bensmiller took up his guitar and sang out with a variety of American and Spanish songs. The crowd sang along and clapped to the time of the music during the whole spectacular evening.

Fun, Entertainment Provided at Snare Affair

The Snare Affair was the innovation of our forward looking Student Council. One of the main attractions was a trophy which was to be awarded to the class with the largest number of members present. The Sophomore Class, a virtual dynamo, took the award hands down. They lead the Seniors and Juniors by a vast majority.

All that were present thoroughly enjoyed the music provided by the Royal Visions. The band played untiringly all evening, and few sat out any of the dances.

In all aspects, the Snare Affair was a success. It was the result of the excellent planning of our Student Council and the leadership which they offer our school. With the cooperation of the school, the get-together was a memorable one

Dino Becomes a Most Provocative Success

In another first for Thurston, a theatrical effort "in the round," the Thespians scored highly in their production of Dino, the story of a youth and the opposition he encounters on the road to rehabilitating himself. Previously, Dino was a juvenile delinquent Sparked with all of the psychological and emotional struggles which teen-agers encounter in the world today glamorized by the love that two human beings can share with each other and darkened by impatient adults who simply don't understand, Dino's problems and his life are quite difficult to assume. Bill Opalicky, a senior, turns in an admirable job in the title role. Shirley Wallace, the admiring, loving girl-friend who becomes a major asset in Dino's progress is portrayed by Christine

Franzen

The difficult job of directing and producing a production "in the round," is assumed by Miss Ina Rae Stanton, Drama and Speech teacher here at Thurston Under her watchful eye and vast theatrical knowledge, each and every actor and actress becomes taken up by the mood of the play. Each seems able to transfer himself to Dino's home, a place of turbulence, tumult and misunderstanding. Each of the players turns himself into the character he is assigned to play and in doing so, he absorbs part of the emotional stress which makes Dino's life an especially hard one to lead. Each one becomes able to understand Dino.

"Disneyland," the theme of the Junior Class Carnival, was a great source of fun and entertainment for some 700 students and parents last April. Approximately $600 was added to the class bank account to alleviate senior expenses.

Seven clubs, as well as Student Council and the Sophomore Class, sponsored booths which demanded skill and/or luck from carnival-going participants. The main attraction of the affair was the talent show, directed by Mr. Alex Lotas. The minstrel portion took many, many hours of tireless work by those involved. Consisting of funny stories and jokes enacted by twelve costumed players, the show was a real hit.

Gail Steslick and Tom Dornton persuade Kathy Moore and Al Karr to try their luck at winning a free ticket to "Teahouse of the August Moon."

Attracts Curious Visitors

Star attractions of the minstrel show were Larry Johnson, Paul Andrews and John Greenberg. This trio, sometimes known as the "Solemn Three," displays their talent before the "Minstrel Show Hoboes" in a jam-packed auditorium. Singing mostly folk songs, the trio headlined the 1963 variety show which gave a really festive atmosphere to the day's events. The applause showed approval.

Thurston Amusing, Sentimental View of Paris

The Senior Class of 1964 can be proud of the terrific performances given in their Senior Play, The Madwoman of Chaillot. One of the best plays presented on the Thurston stage, it was an amusing but sentimental look at the unaffected happiness of Paris.

Jennie Maclean gave an exceptional portrayal of Countess Aurelia, the Mad Woman of Chaillot. Our talented exchange student from England, Martin Parkes, was excellent in the role of the Ragpicker.

Aurelia (after being told by her friends that people outside of the Countess' circle are grim and money-hungry) decides to dispose of the prospectors, the eager press agents, and the influential pressure groups that want to tear up her beloved Paris for personal gains. She engaged the help of Mms. Constance (Janice Kleim), Mlle. Gabrielle (Maureen McCabe), Mrs. Josephine (Leslie Proctor) and the Ragpicker in order to do away with these evil people.

Lovett Hall, Greenfield

It was a clear May night and the Juniors and Seniors were on their way to the "Stardust" Prom. This festive and exciting dance was held in the beautiful Lovett Hall in Greenfield Village. Many weeks and many dollars were spent on preparing for this memorable night, and it had finally arrived.

Romantic music, which was provided by the Tom Ploeger Dance Band, added to the illusion of heaven created by a maze of pastel formals and white coats of the dancers whirling and gliding by. Quick cocktail parties began the night's gaiety and set the stage for the festivities to come. No doubt many tears of mixed joy and sorrow and remembrance fell that evening for this, the Junior-Senior Prom, was the final tribute of the Junior class to the graduating Seniors.

Village Is Set for Junior-Senior Prom, 'Stardust'

Stardust glittered as Thurston students danced the night away in the ballroom of Levet Hall. It was a sentimental evening for everybody, especially the Seniors, who were the last graduating class to have been at Thurston since the seventh grade. The final dance of the year was a tremendous success and certainly gave the Seniors a happy evening to remember.

Brightly Costumed Swim Club Members Display Talent in Visits to Hawaii, Alaska

From the Atlantic to the Pacific the swimming was terrific as Thurston Swim Club members presented "Holiday U.S.A." The show took the audience on a tour of the United States including Alaska and Hawaii. The trip took them to such fantastic tourist attractions as Disneyland, Las Vegas, the Mardi Gras and even to our home state in time for the Holland Tulip Festival! The boys, who are kiddingly referred to as "the drips," performed rollicking comedy dives which kept the audience in stitches. Our new addition to the members was Joey Kostrick, the eight-year-old sister of Judy Kostrick. She played the part of Brer Rabbit in the Disneyland number and stole the scene as she performed like a true swimmer.

"Ready Top? Ready Bottom?" was the cry that sent stunt divers Dan O'Grady and Ed Surino into hilarious dives.

of a new era in their lives with college, jobs and marriage ahead of them. For them, the bright future holds everything, but Thurston will never be forgotten.

for 385 Grads With Honors Day, Graduation

"Today we follow, tomorrow we lead," is remembered as the worthy motto of the 1963 graduating class. And it is evident that the decisions which characterized their stay at Thurston, while following, will influence their lives greatly, as they lead.

Sitting in their caps and gowns on Honors Day, the class of '63 was an impressive sight, beheld with envy and expectation by the underclassmen soon to replace the Seniors as leaders of the student body. On this day, when students are given recognition for outstanding achievement, 39 members of the Senior Class were awarded scholarships.

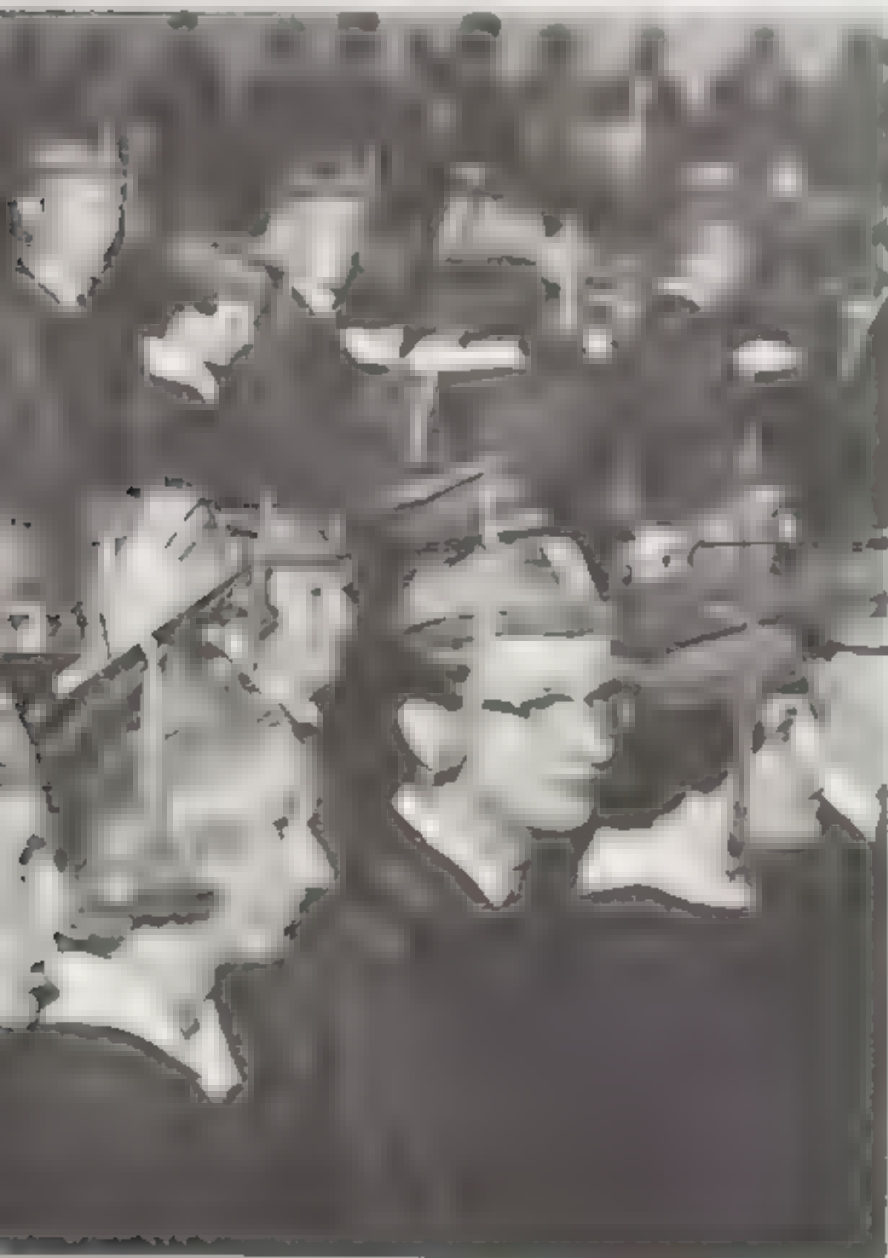

At Baccalaureate, the traditional service, the Reverend Robert F. Davies from Aldersgate Methodist Church gave the Invocation and Benediction.

Graduation, the one day looked most forward to in a high school student's life, took place June 13, 1963. The class of 1963 numbered 387, as compared to the 135 students in the first graduating class in 1957. And so they graduated; the last class to be at Thurston since the seventh grade.

Organizations

Growth of Character Brought About by

Active Student Participation in Organizations

Organizations have become a vital part of student life at Thurston. Each year more and more new organizations are being added, and the old ones continue to grow. Many organizations such as Ski Club and GAA provide fun and amusement for students. Others such as the Chess and Rocket Club enable their members to develop their interests and knowledge in that area. Foreign language clubs are also popular at Thurston, because they plan many activities and trips which better acquaint the student with the countries they are studying. One thing that is true of all organizations, however, is that they develop character. Students' ever-mounting interest in organizations makes them accept responsibility in taking part in club activities. Since organizations are rapidly growing in size and number, leadership by students has become very important.

In the following pages you will see how the development of responsibility, initiative, and leadership are brought about through active student participation in organizations.

This year, like all years, has been busy for the Student Council. Beginning with the sale of textbooks and distribution of Junior Class rings, the Council organized and managed many school activities.

In addition to sponsoring various activities throughout the school year, the Council is responsible for all the extra-curricular activities which are enjoyed so much by Thurston's students. Clubs are required to file petitions with the Council, preventing sororities and fraternities at Thurston. In addition to this, any organization wishing to sponsor a dance, sock-hop, or bake sale, must first obtain permission from the Council.

Besides arranging the dates of dances and the like, the Council represents the students of Thurston. At the beginning of the year, they were asked how they felt the election of the Homecoming Queen and her Court should be handled. After a plan of action had been decided upon, the Council conducted the balloting and counted the votes which elected Barb Diederich.

Another matter, which was the subject of Council, conducted a poll of opinions on how to conduct our tight lunch hour schedule. The question of whether or not to have bells at the beginning and end of classes was another thing which the Council questioned the student body about. Being a member of the Student Council is a much-coveted honor at Thurston High. During spring elections, students fight hard to win this honor.

Thurston Men Undergo Hardships of Hilarious

Thurston sports events provide many a thrilling afternoon and evening for the student body. Whether it be screaming in the football stands on a windy fall day, cheering in the bleachers at an exciting swim meet or leaping with joy as blue and white sinks the winning basket, spectators have a variety of school sports to enjoy. The boys participating on the field, in the pool or on the court put everything they've got into their game, giving their best and still some to gain another victory for their team, for their school. When they are honored with a varsity letter, they proudly wear it on a sweater. For these outstanding athletes the Varsity Club was formed. The major requirement for admittance is earning a letter in any one of the many sports at Thurston.

Initiation is the fun part of joining the Varsity Club. Older members, big brothers, give bizarre dress instructions to their little brothers. Huge paddles (all shapes and colors) are carried by pledges all day in school. As a pledge complies with any Varsity Club member's demand, his signature is placed on the paddle. After enough older members have signed, the pledge becomes a full fledged Varsity Club member. The club's purpose is to promote sportsmanship and fellowship among athletes.

Big Brothers can get kind of ornery, but from Karl Shutt's smile it doesn't look like he's minding the ordeal of initiation at all. His gigantic paddle will be signed by various members of the Varsity Club before he is admitted into the Thurston's athletes' organization.

Initiations To Join Varsity Club, Blue Hi-Y

Young men eager to offer helping hands are the chief characteristics of boys belonging to Thurston's chapter of the Blue Hi-Y. The club's annual initiation is a highly popular event of the school year. All sorts of crazy antics result when pledge members follow the orders of big brothers. The Blue Hi-Y, being the brother society of the Y-Teens, also socializes with the girl's club.

Proud Vita Staff Knows Hours of Headlining,

The 1964 Vita could never have gained fame and recognition without the help of many competent staff members such as Sally Kuryla (Assistant Editor), Judy Klocko (Assistant Editor), and Judy Nowicki (Activities Editor). The task depicted here is that of proofreading finished pages; maybe not as interesting as picture picking, page layout, or headline writing but still an essential part if you're going to have an award-winning book as we did last year. This year our Vita promises to bring home even more and better awards than before.

Section Editors Give Hurrah; Last

Pages Of Vita Are Sent To Press

The work on this year's Vita actually began last August. During that month, this year's Editor-in-Chief, Linda Bucon and her assistants, Judy Klocko and Sally Kuryla began to plan this year's book.

Once the students were back in the "hallowed halls" of Thurston, Linda's first duty was to build a competent staff. Many of last year's staff members came back to join new members from the senior, junior, and sophomore classes.

Now that the 1964 Vita is completed, the staff members can sit back and crow, "No doubt about it, that's the best yearbook yet!" Not forgotten, however, are the days when we ran from classmate to classmate asking anxiously, "Who's the fourth guy in the fifth row?" as our precious proofs turned black in our hands.

Ah well, it was worth it, this is the best Vita yet!

"Have any money to turn in today?" asks Sally Myall daily of her small but hard-working advertising staff. "Some today," says Tom Ninni.

Copyreading Have Produced a Good Yearbook

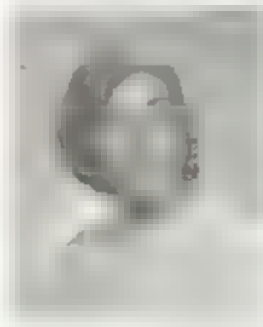

'64 Vita Begun Last May Is Finally Done; Staff

Works Many Weekends To Meet Deadlines

Members of the Vita staff discovered this year that yearbook meetings are always busy affairs, for it is at meetings that yearbooks are born. There is the excitement of riffling through the fat envelope of proofs which Craine Studios has just sent, the challenge of debating with a fellow staff member which pictures should be used on the page in question, and the thrill of seeing the page that you, without any help, laid out come back from the yearbook company.

Very often, on the Vita staff one person is solely responsible for a page or even an entire section. Not only do they have to lay out the pictures and plan for the headlines, cutlines, and body copy; very often the same person writes all the material which is printed on the pages as well.

Outlook Staff Publish Informative Student Paper

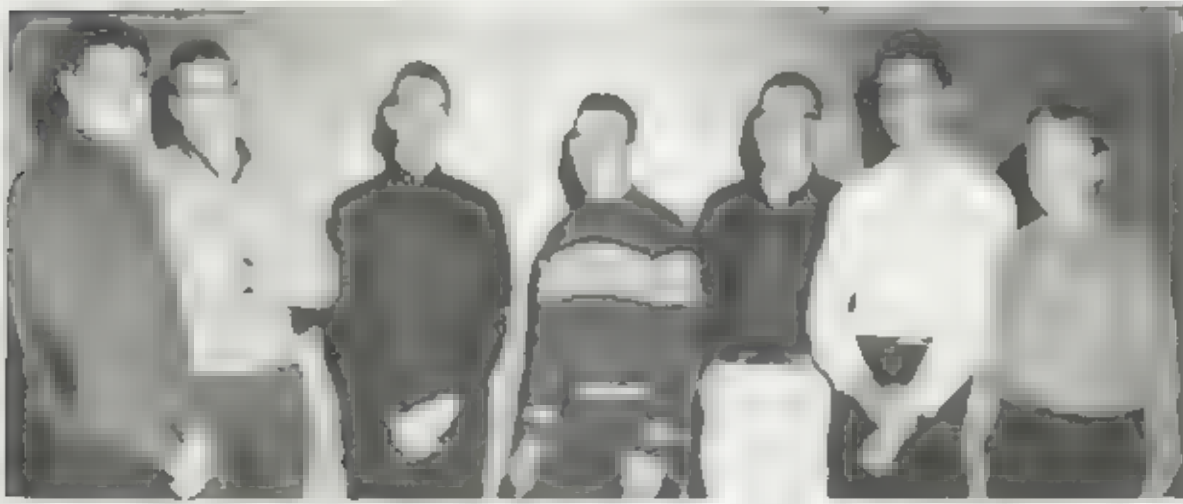

Mr. Hamm's hardworking journalists do a fine job of publishing the student paper, The Eagle Outlook. The Outlook keeps Thurstonites informed about the athletic teams' latest victories, the Student Council's exploits and all the other happenings about the school. The paper does a particularly fine job of covering the annual Homecoming.

Besides being reporters, the staff members of the Eagle Outlook are encouraged to keep their eyes and ears open for the stuff that feature stories and editorials are made of. As a result of this gentle prodding, many good features, and an occasional, hard-hitting editorial are to be found in the pages of the Eagle Outlook.

To keep his supply of newsmen intact Mr. Hamm, with the assistance of Miss Pellegrin, teaches the course in preliminary journalism, and also the advanced course which is offered at Thurston. The students learn the skills of the trade — headlining, proof-reading and good writing techniques, which will make them assets to the paper and good reporters as well.

Help AFS To Bring Exchange Student

Based on the ideals of increasing understanding and friendship among the peoples of the world by giving teen-agers all over the world the chance to live and work in a foreign nation, the American Field Service works busily each year toward the goal of sending one of their members to live abroad each summer. In return, they are also financially responsible for bringing an exchange student to live and work here in America during the school year.

Dedicated to the principles of world peace, each active member works hard each year to financially support the club through the annual AFS-Thurston Canister Drive, held soon after school begins each year. They also sponsor a yearly Bermuda Day and dance.

Under the leadership of Mr. Lee Alpern, Mr. Martin Brosnan and Mrs. Sue Hardin this year, the club, which is one of the largest at Thurston, has brought over Martin Parkes from Birmingham, England, who is living with the family of Jim Reinert, an active senior member.

The club is now also waiting for the placement of one of the school finalists, Don Bone and Judi Nowicki, in the summer program. It is now eagerly waiting to become still another part of an international peace program. This past year the club was truly a success.

Thurston's Language Clubs Provide Fascinating

As their goal each year, German Club members strive to familiarize themselves with the language and people of Germany. Getting the year started with a get-acquainted party is only one of the excellent opportunities to socialize with fellow members. Sponsored by Mrs. Zawojski, the club participates in numerous activities like bowling parties and school splash parties, not to mention their annual entry in the Homecoming Parade. They also see a variety of films of old and colorful Germany, explaining the culture, customs and general life of the country's people

The excitement and fascination of France, from the docks at Le Havre to the white beaches of Nice, are given a close look by members of the French Club. Films and magazines help to portray a true picture of the French way of life. By joining in on some small Christmas customs of the country, French Club members take a part in that life. Letters from French pen pals also make the meetings enjoyable and interesting. Working toward their goal of visiting a French restaurant and dining as only the French know how, members sponsor frequent bake sales to the delight of the entire student body ledge of the great language by taking part in Thurston's Latin Club. Classical plays and stories are translated by this group, providing very interesting after-school meetings.

Meetings for Those Students With Extra Interests

Keeping busy is no problem for the members of the Latin Club. Banquets, plays and dances keep them active and deeply engrossed in their language study. Because there is no present day country or culture for them to study, ancient Rome holds their interest. The main event of the year for the club is the annual Roman banquet, presented in the spring. At this banquet plays of classical Rome are acted out by club members. Preparation for this final event of the year occupies most of the time during club meetings. Members stay busy with practice and more practice until the final result is most rewarding for participants.

Mexico and Spain are both studied by Thurston's Spanish Club. Though different in many ways, the cultures of both countries provide interesting material for the club. Films are available showing gorgeous Spanish scenery along with the general lives of the inhabitants of both Mexico and Spain.

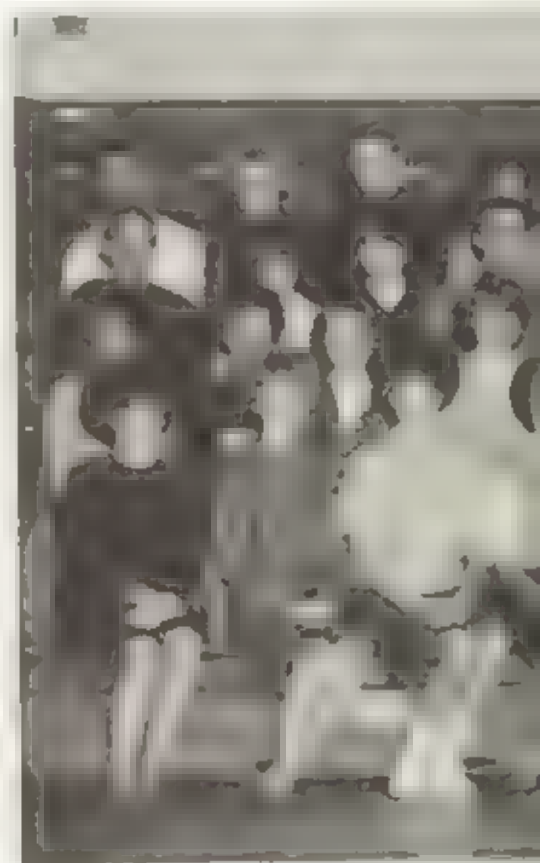

The club celebrates Christmas in the true Spanish style. Pinatas and Christmas goodies, along with the traditional carols, are added to provide an enjoyable time for all members. A deeper understanding of the countries to which their studied language belongs can be gained through the Spanish Club.

Leaving on a skiing trip, members of the Ski Club enjoy the companionship of fellow lovers of this growing sport. Warm clothes and skiing equipment are a great necessity

A flash of color and a "look out below!" got this year's Ski Club off to a good start. For the past five years, Ski Club has been one of the most successful clubs at Thurston. With Miss Rentrop as the club sponsor, the 120 members of Ski Club enjoy one day trips to Mount Brighton and Mount Holly. Some week-end trips are also taken to Mount Frederick, Thunder Mountain and Caberfae.

In its first year of competition, the Ski Team has sparked the interest of many of the club's members. The officers of the club, President Tania Weiss, Vice-President Kris Hornyak, Secretary Sue Houk, Treasurer Linda Gorman and Parliamentarian Carol Seidlarz, have led the team to many of its first places.

Most members will agree that the reason they like skiing is that it makes them feel free, and for $1.00 a year you can take part too. See you on the slopes?

The main purpose of Ski Club is to give proper instruction, at any level, to student skiers at a price students can afford. Miss Rentrop is very enthusiastic about the club and says, "With such high membership, active participation and enthusiasm, I am sure Thurston will continue to support and keep its students abreast of the largest growing sport in the nation!"

Model United Nations, Assembly Committee Plan Interesting Activities

Better than banging your shoe is using your head at a lively session of the Model United Nations Club. Members enjoy fascinating "careers" as foreign representatives. Their efforts are climaxed at U. of D., where, in a huge session, club members take their stands on controversial issues. This year's countries are Dahomey, Sudan, and the United Arab Republic. Thurston's representatives will voice solutions to such problems as disarmament, Portuguese African territory, U.N. police, World Court and Aden. Laterally, they "have the whole world in their hands."

Assemblies, UN Play Leading Role in School

Have you enjoyed the wonderful assemblies presented this year by the Assembly Committee? The Orientation Assembly started off the year. At this assembly, the shy and bewildered tenth graders became acquainted with T.H.S. Other assemblies which were presented this year by the Assembly Committee included the Fashion Show, the Ski Club program, the Christmas program and the talent show. The main function of the Assembly Committee is, of course, to plan assemblies. It also tries to get students and teachers to work out a schedule calendar. The students take the most responsibility in making the assemblies fun and interesting. They do most of the planning. They also make sure the people participating in the assemblies can come at the scheduled time and try their best to make sure everything is a success. The committee is under the assistance of Helen Ditzhazy, the Assistant Principal. The three other sponsors are Mrs. Quandt, Miss Davie and Mr. Tye.

Daryl Stewart, Laurie Hanson and Jane Immethun discuss plans for the next all-season assembly. These three girls have worked hard to organize those fun and informative sessions which all the students appreciate and enjoy.

The National Honor Society is an organization which promotes scholarship and leadership. It serves as a milestone of one's high school education

The qualifications are brief but important. The student must maintain a "B" average. He must also display qualities of character, leadership and citizenship. These three qualities to be found in the applicant are determined by the rating of the school faculty. Scholarship of the applicant is determined by examination of his record in the high school office by the chapter advisor. If a member of the society fails to maintain all four characteristics expected of him, during his enrollment in school, he will be placed on probation until he improves. Thurston's debaters receive excellent experience for future college debates. Debate meets are frequent, so they spend much of their time preparing their arguments and delivery. Mr. Duston sponsors both the varsity and reserve squads, coaching members along to victory.

Many of the highlights of the school year occur on Thurston's little auditorium stage. Students who spend hours of hard work practicing and preparing for that big opening night are rewarded not only by applause, but also by receiving the privilege of becoming a Thespian.

The library is certainly one of the busiest spots at Thurston. Every hour of the day and sometimes after school, students on passes or in classes can be found either doing research or personal reading in the library. Keeping it neat and in order is a job much too big for Mrs. Shlotterbeck and Mr. Miley to handle alone. Thanks to the help of students who have signed up for the course, Thurston's librarians receive the needed help. Taking passes, checking books, keeping shelves in order, helping with films and projectors and numerous other services are performed by these assistants. They learn the basic operations involved with running a library smoothly. Using the card catalog and other facilities of the library, assistants become quite proficient with helping fellow students find information or locate books. It isn't strange to see students in old shirts, splashed with bright yellows, reds, and blues at Thurston after school. Art Club members are always busy on some project. Thurston's excellent Art Department offers many opportunities to its students. The Art Club is a perfect example of one of these opportunities. The club gives students who wish more than just classroom work, a chance to try new techniques. The fine art work displayed on many of the hall posters are products of Art Club members. The art room show-case also displays work done by the club as well as the work of art classes.

Awards are given according to the number of points a girl has earned throughout the year. The senior with the most points over the three year period is given a trophy

Vogue Members Learn Poise, High Fashion

One can always recognize a prominent member of the Vogue Club when passing her in the crowded halls. She is the girl who is always neat in appearance, shining and beaming in complexion, and bubbling in personality. These attractive girls are all dedicated to the proposition that a girl should look, feel, act and talk like a girl.

The Vogue Club keeps its regular members up to date on the latest news in high fashion. Sponsored by Miss Laura Godin, and under the leadership of President Sandy Sek, Vice-President Melody Bessega and Treasurer Sue Houk, the members learn new techniques in hairstyling and choosing the correct and appropriate wearing apparel. Guest speakers are also part of their regular club meetings.

Last fall they sponsored a fashion show, modeling clothes from Nadon's. While walking down the wooden ramp, the girls modeled elegantly beautiful clothes which made a perfect showcase for their poise and grace. These neat, clean, attractive girls are an asset to any school. This is truly a club at Thurston of which the whole school can be greatly proud.

Having finished modeling for the successful Vogue Club fashion show, Joyce Halonen, Cheryl Kobe and Lellean Alcazar take a break. At the club meetings, there are various speakers who talk about hair styles, make-up, dress and poise

Whitecaps and Waves Enjoy Stunt Competition

Demonstrating her skill and co-ordination in swimming is Linda Gorman. She is presenting her performance for the stunt competition

Judges and scorekeepers are very important people when it means deciding just exactly who will get the honor of being winner. Hours of practice have gone into the girls' performance, and justice should be given! Watching the swimmers very closely are those who decide the results

Under the direction of Miss Lindeman, the Thurston High School Swim Club works diligently throughout the year. The swim show and the stunt competition are two of the club's events.

Last year's swim show, "Holiday U.S.A.," was a great success and truly showed the talent and discipline of the group. Bright costumes and clever routines, perfected by hours of hard work, merited the applause from the audience. This year, a stunt competition was the club activity. Response was unusually good, and the girls who took the honors were deserving, skilled swimmers.

It's easy to see that the hard-working, water-loving Swim Club members manage to have a good amount of fun also!

Anxiously watching their "friends" in the stunt competition these girls are waiting for their chance to prove their ability

The Waves and Whitecaps are the two swim levels to be achieved. It looks as if these spectators are engrossed Thurston's Intramural Club is open to all willing and energetic fellows. These boys have the opportunity to participate not only in rowdy football games on sometimes muddy gridirons, in fast-moving basketball games and in tiring volleyball matches, but also in various other sports the year around. This club is extremely helpful in teaching students sportsmanship, knowledge of numerous games and in allowing all involved to have just a great time. The club holds supervised meets and games on a competitive basis, and the winners and runners-up are awarded medals.

Intramurals take in everything including individual sports

Senior Paul Lawson shows his prize that he won in the annual turkey trot. The turkey trot, being an intramural event, is open to all fellows in the school. The only requirements are a pair of fast-moving legs and a good pair of running shoes, plus energy.

Energetic Runners Join Cross Country, Track Clubs

The Cross Country Club, open to all members of Thurston's winning Cross Country Team, has as its main objective the promotion of interest in this sport all year. Members are able to keep fast, fit and friendly, while enjoying themselves. With Mr. Burgess as its sponsor, the club can only gain fun and friendship while enjoying themselves immensely.

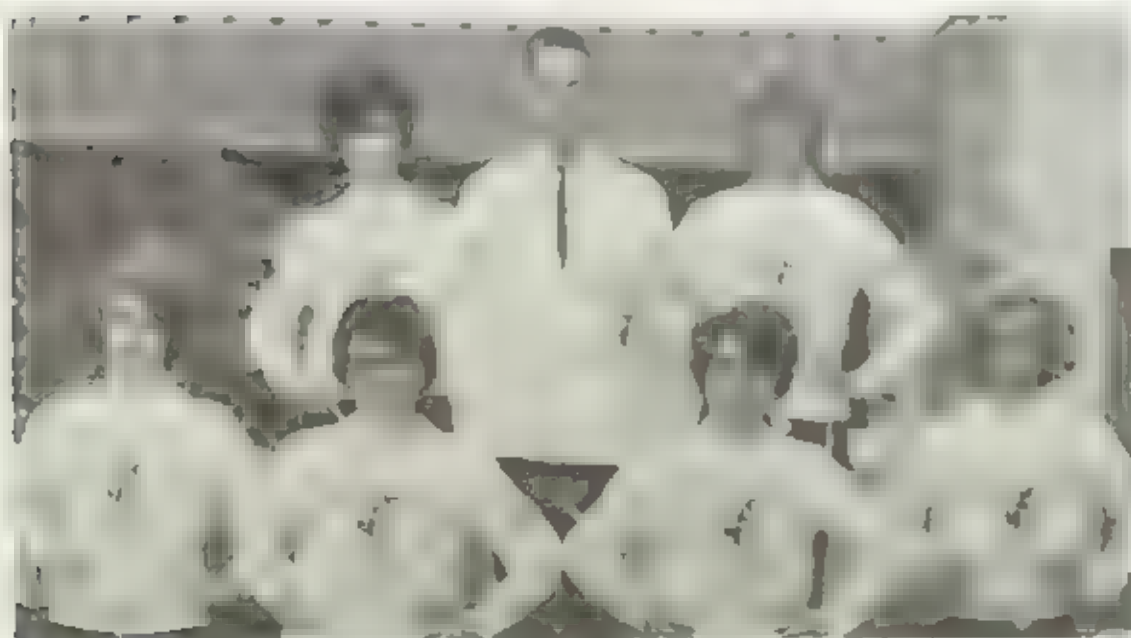

Established for the purpose of discussing and evaluating track meets and raising money for badly needed sports equipment, the Track Club of Thurston is open to all those fellows showing an interest in the highly competitive sport. You need not be a member of the track team. Newly coached by Mr. Lake, the club highly enjoys its competitive nature.

Whether it be at a wet and soggy football game or a formal spring concert, Thurston's bands come through every time.

After football season, the main goal of the Honors Band is the Band Festival held every March. This gives band members an excellent chance to hear other musical organizations in the Michigan area, as well as meeting other band personnel.

The annual spring program at Thurston is put on by both Honors and Varsity Bands. For a final performance of the year, the Music Department goes all out to create an evening enjoyable for all.

Leading our fine band this year is enthusiastic Drum Major and popular Senior Russ Hart.

Thurston's students with musical training in string instruments, find their forte taught in the orchestra class at the school. Violin, violas, cellos and string bass are just some of the instruments making up this fine organization. Mr. Roth, the instructor, carefully guides participants toward understanding and interpreting music in the correct, melodic form. At the annual Spring Concert orchestra members prove their talents by providing an excellent program made up of enjoyable pieces which appeal to all types of persons in the audience. At these performances, wind instruments used in the bands at Thurston, join the orchestra to present a full, complete sound.

With Mr. William Roth as their able director, the orchestra practices daily in order to obtain those needed skills for success

'Go Thurston' is the insistent cry heard as the Varsity Cheerleaders' 63 Homecoming car makes its way to the football field. Julie, Kathy, Diane and Kris whip it up.

Vivacious, Energetic, Peppy Cheerleaders Help

Football and basketball games wouldn't be the same without the sparks ignited by eight Varsity Cheerleaders. Their enthusiasm and robust spirit fires both the crowds and team. Last summer the girls attended an Indiana cheerleading camp, gaining new ideas and skills and placing second in team competition. At a Birmingham clinic with fourteen other schools, they took first place. Truly an honor for Thurston!

The Varsity and Reserve Cheerleaders join forces in pepping up the crowd during the drizzling Homecoming game. Their spirit and enthusiasm came strongly through to inspire the team despite any weather.

The vivacious Reserve Cheerleaders prove that diligent practice pay off. Cheering tactics learned at a Michigan camp plus winning school spirit add up to skill and refreshing style. At the Birmingham cheerleader clinic, the squad, in spite of stiff competition won second place in the reserve contest. We wish them luck in spring tryouts.

Enthusiasm of Teams Bring to Fans

Warm Remembrances of 63-64 Season of Sports

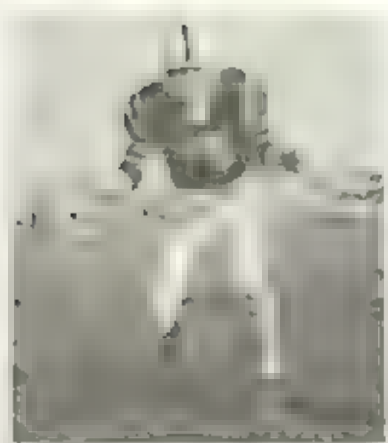

With the first downpour of confetti over cheering THS fans, the '63-'64 sports program began with more spirit and enthusiasm pushing our teams onto victory than ever before. The large variety of varsity sports, which are open to all male students, gives them experience which will be valuable in later years. Keeping a rigorous schedule, being a good sport when a game is lost, profiting by mistakes, and getting along with fellow teammates increases in many ways their growth into young mature men.

Proud memories made up this year's season of sports. The matmen captured the league title for the second year in a row; and our Cagers, after a bitter season last year, returned this year to tie for first place in the league. The medley relay team made the All American and Prep Swimmer Ken Wiebeck broke two more state records at Ann Arbor. These are only a few events that we Thurstonites will proudly remember in years to come.

The opening kickoff! The mighty Eagles surge forward to stop their equally determined opponents in the '63 Homecoming battle

Their record of victories and defeats cannot truly reflect the spirit or desire shown by this year's football team.

The first four games of the season were losses in the record books, but they were not defeats for the team. After every game they improved and practiced hard to correct their mistakes.

Following the Southfield, Cass Tech, Franklin and Birmingham Groves games, the Thurston gridders found themselves and beat a strong North Farmington team. Next after a narrow loss to Lutheran West, Thurston was not to be denied victory for the remainder of the season.

Swamping Oak Park, Thurston then scored a hard fought victory over our cross town rivals Redford Union, accurately showing the ability of our Eagles.

The Riverside game resulted in "no contest" as the team, to honor their coach, smashed their opponents 34-0.

The way in which the team rebounded from early defeat and finished with strong victories reflects the coaching, teamwork and desire of a great team to bring honor to our school.

In Regionals For A Smashing Season of Victories

This year, the Thurston Harriers turned in the best season recorded by our school. They were able to place more runners in the State Meet than in any previous year. Mr. Burgess attributed this to the summer cross country camp. Here the boys ran three times a day while enjoying the sun and water of Mr. Burgess' cottage.

The team had two fine runners in Keith Reed and Co-captain Dick Fleming. One could always count on these runners to be the first ones in any race. Other fine senior Harriers were co-captain Bob Smilie, Herm Fischer and Lee Dixon. The team also had a lot of fine developing Juniors and Sophomores such as Ralph Stanifer, Rich Johnson, Don Bristol, Curt Russell, Jim Damron and Al Phillips. These boys will come on strong next year and keep the fine tradition of Thurston runners. So look for the Blue and White to again flash by the finish line first with a winning team.

With senior Mike Pickett and Don Bristol leading the way, it is easy to see who will win this race.

Practicing for the next meet, co-captain Bob Smilie and senior Herm Fischer work out around the school.

Co-captain Rich Fleming followed by Keith Reed, are valuable members to Thurston's Harriers.

Fine Tankers Defeat All Dual Meet Opponents,

Jim Schuur's style helps the Eagles to another victory.

Final Record 6,0

Thurston's Tankers, under the excellent coaching of Mr. Mracna, again proved themselves to be a swimming power. They defeated all meet competitors in the league with a six won, zero lost record, capturing their fifth consecutive North Suburban Dual Meet Championship. The season record was 14-1. The single loss was to Birmingham Seaholm, state champion. In the Conference Meet, the Eagles were edged out by a $2\frac{3}{4}$ point margin by Groves. Although settling for second position, they won over half of the first places and set nine league and pool records.

Co-captains Ken Wiebeck and Pat Duthie accounted for eight league and pool records — Wiebeck in the 50 and 100-yard-free style events, and Duthie in the 200-yard-individual-medley and 100-yard-butterfly. Bill Zeeb swam the 400-yard-freestyle in record time. Jim Girard won the 100-yard-backstroke.

Cagers Tie for First Place with N. Farmington

THS Wins Trophy in Riverside

Christmas Tournaments

This year, the Thurston Cagers have surprised many teams. In the Mid-Wayne League last year, they had a 0-10 won-lost record. However, in the Northwest Suburban League they finished with seven wins and one loss. With this record, they shared part of first place with North Farmington.

In the Riverside Christmas Tournament, the Cagers upset Ecorse. Then they defeated North Farmington to go on to the finals. T.H.S. met Riverside in the finals, but lost in the last eight seconds with a score of 57-55. With this achievement, Thurston won a runner-up trophy.

The Eagles ended up the season with a 12-6 record. This is the first Thurston basketball team to acquire trophies. The class of '64 truly has started a new basketball era for T.H.S. Teams to follow will have something to play for in their upcoming seasons.

His arm straining to make the basket, Junior John Page has put together another great combination of stretch and bounce to add to the already winning score. John's tremendous talent is one of the reasons our team has improved so greatly this past season.

A familiar sight on the basketball court is Coach Pasternak in the middle of the team's huddle, discussing winning plays to be used during a particularly tight game. Strategies decided here have broken many a tie.

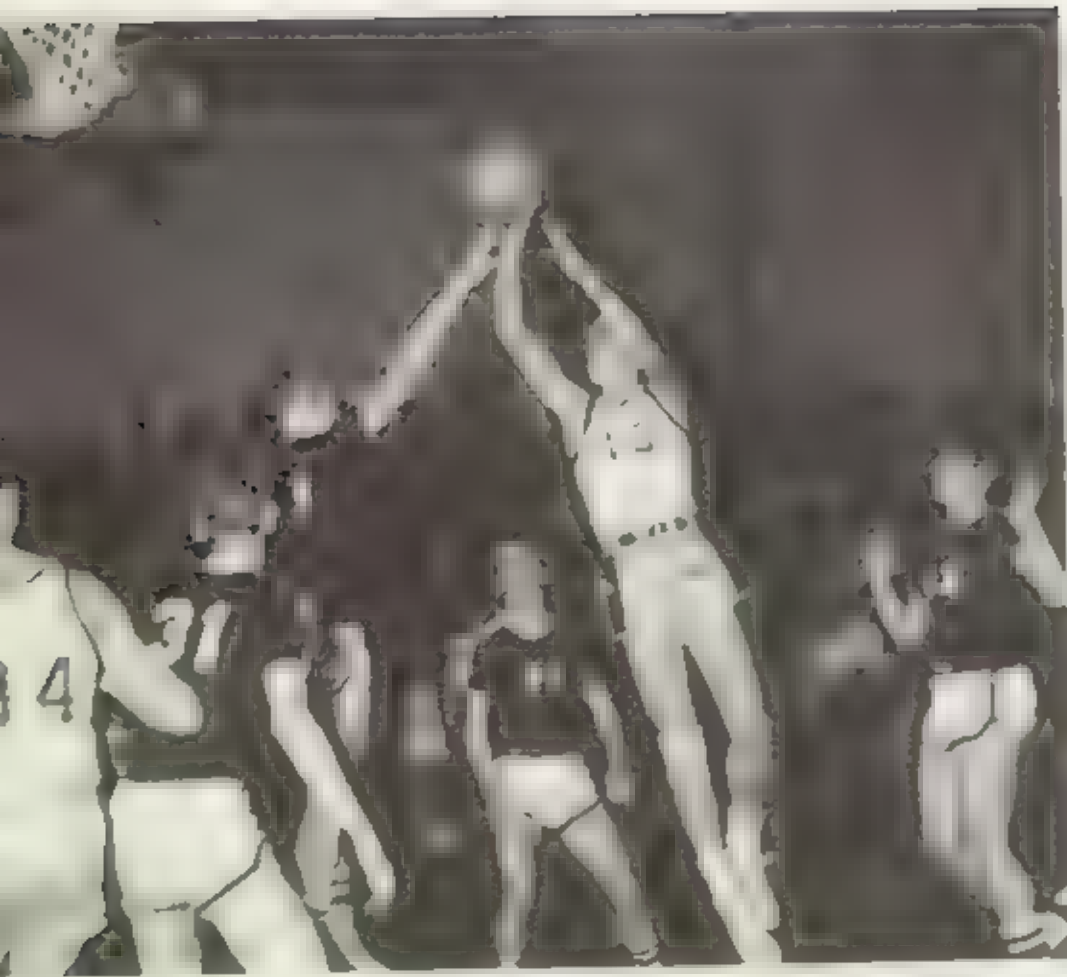

in New Suburban League

With a snap and a bounce, Senior Paul Lawson 'throws another successful' play.

Displaying plenty of power and drive, this year's captain, Jerry Samuelian, leaps for another basket. Jerry, who usually leads his team in scoring, has always been one of the Eagle's best players.

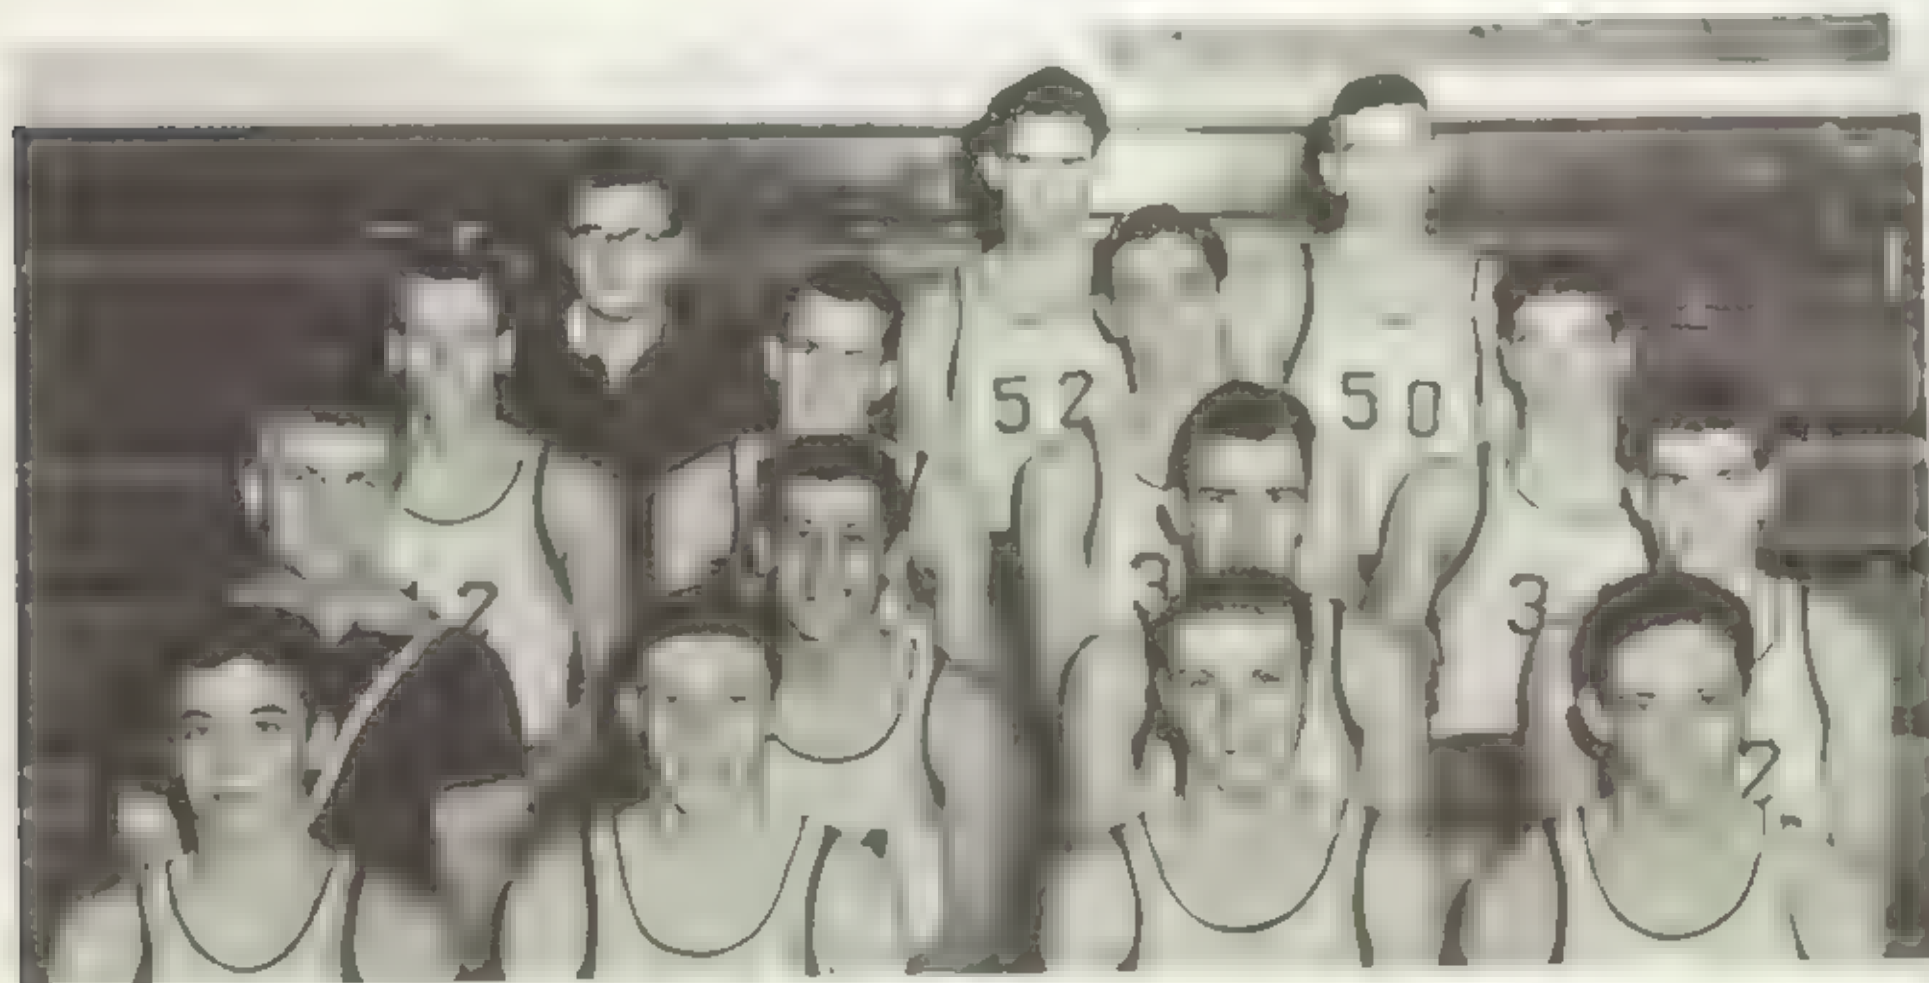

Senior Bob Venegoni, another of the team's many splendid players, battles against odds from the opposition to aim for a perfect shot in a tightly scored game.

Pete Marsalese begins another match, displaying the ability which earned him the distinction of fourth in the state in the 145-pound-class

Typifying the zeal and determination exhibited by the sophomores of the wrestling squad is Dave Belknap.

Matmen Put Forth

Although they had some outstanding opponents, T.H.S. Matmen put forth all their individual effort and spirit to make our wrestling team, league champions for the second year in a row. According to Coach Knotts, this was the most successful year the wrestling team has ever had.

Their many successes includes taking second place in the regionals and a second in the Christmas Tournament. In the state regionals, a second place was also captured by the Thurston matmen. In the state championships, with 58 schools qualifying boys out of 93 schools that took part in regional competition, our wrestlers finished 13th in the state.

Under the leadership of co-captains Jack Provencal and Dave Woloch, a total of 28 medals were won throughout the year. In dual meets, a total of seven wins and five losses were accumulated.

As most of the team was composed of juniors, many of our fine wrestlers will be returning next year. Among them will be Pete Marsalese, who placed as the fourth best 145 pounder in the state and Jerry Szostak who is regional champion. Next year's wrestling team should provide many thrills for its fans.

Sophomore Dave Belknap's winner at first place in the Garden City Tourney 103-pound-class, keeps his man down.

Hard Work, Determination Pay Off for Energetic

Clearing the low hurdles and performing with excellent skill and perfect form are Skip Klinkert and Richard Stefani, varsity men.

Once again the name of Thurston brought fear into the minds of the 1963 track team's opponents. From the time they took to the track till the meet was over they were in command of the situation, extending the team's unbeaten streak to 2½ years. Among the team's other achievements were a first in the league championship for an unprecedented fourth year in a row, fourth at the Monroe Relays, second at the Claude Snarey Relays and sixth at the Central Michigan Relays (said to be the largest high school meet in the United States).

Many outstanding athletes added to the team: Steve Leuchtman in the shot put, Dan Orlikowski and Jim Mollard in the pole vault, and Ralph Stephanson in the half mile and quarter mile. These Seniors, coupled with Juniors Randy Bogos and Skip Klinkert, were valuable in the Eagle triumphs

Showing great strength, force, agility and form, one of Thurston's varsity shot-putters, Gary Nida, strives for that record breaking put of the season

Skip Klinkert, Gary Barringer, Steve Dolen and Randy Bogos demonstrate positions for a fast start. These fellows made up the 880-yard relay team which earned them the title of Mid-Wayne League champions.

Using all of the great speed and agility he possesses, trackman Skip Klinkert bounds effortlessly up and over one of a whole line of low hurdles, ahead of his able opponent from R U. He gains another victory for Thurstonites.

Thurston broadjumper Jerry Samuelian leaps high into the air as he strives to set a new Thurston record, while Bob Venegoni looks on

Thurston runners Lee Dixon and Ken Smillie try their level best to catch up to and in all probability pass their worthy opponent from Redford Union in an effort to win the long and tiresome race for Thurston High

Team Will Win if it Has Hustle, Desire, Determination

Completing one of the most successful seasons in our history, the baseball squad compiled a 12-won, 4-lost record. In spite of a strong performance on the field, the Eagle bid for a second consecutive championship fell short. Riverview finished one game ahead, and so last year's top teams exchanged first and second places.

Outstanding performances were turned in by Senior infielders Bill Wooley and Marty Suchik and League batting champion Keith Spicer. These men provided the strongest infield in the league. A strong pitching staff was anchored by Arnie Helwig, who pitched eight complete games and had an earned-run average of 1.20. Other strong pitching jobs were turned in by Sophomore Jim Sproul and Seniors Tom Tanner and Keith Spicer. Two boys were all league selections: rightfielder Bill Sproul and shortstop Keith Spicer. Coach Legget can have nothing but pride and satisfaction in the good ball playing the 1963 squad did for Thurston

Golf Team Continues Spectacular Showing by

Coach Mraena makes sure that Derryl Barringer and Dennis Raisanen keep their eyes on the ball as they putt, while Jim MacDonald, Mike Verner and Frank Mauz look on. Practice makes perfect, and the golfers strive to beat their opponents.

One of Thurston's star golfers doesn't look too sorrowful because he gets to play caddy for a day. It's all part of the fun. Right, Derryl?

Golferman Dennis Raisanen finishes his perfect swing.

Winning Sixth Title

Overshadowed by baseball and track? Not this golf team, for it proved to be the "swingiest" Thurston has ever had! With outstanding Seniors Ken Black, Jim Hardy, Denny Raisanen and Frank Mauze, the League Championship was captured for the sixth time, setting a league record for the lowest four-man team score. Ken Black, medalist for Thurston, was voted the most valuable player. The team then went on to a third place finish in the regionals, which was the best Thurston finish ever in a state meet.

While the Seniors were a big factor in the success of the golf team this year, a strong team behind these boys played a large part in their great victories. Juniors Derryl Barringer and Mike Vernier and Sophomores Jim MacDonald, Bob Borrien and Al Bass were strong performers all year long.

To win six straight league titles is not a little achievement. The golfers deserve many congratulations!

"How does that look to you, Frank?" asks Ken Black hesitantly but hopefully as he lines up a putt in hopes of winning the match. Because of this kind of teamwork, the Thurston golfers were a success.

Tennismen Win Five, Lose Three in Third

Lunging into the air to receive the serve is Paul Sadows. Paul was chosen most valuable player on the team last year.

During the tennis team's third and final season in the Mid-Wayne League, there was a total of five wins and three losses. With a squad of only thirteen players and no full reserve squad, just reserve players, the team always gave an excellent showing at their matches.

Under the able coaching of Mr. White, the tennismen practice at neighboring courts since there are none here at Thurston. Tennis balls can be seen bouncing around the courts on almost any spring morning about 6:30.

Senior members of the tennis team, who gave their all, include Dave Daniels, Fred Trapnell and Allan Kuhl. Junior members, most of whom are returning, are Dave Mortimer, Joe Szeidel, Don Heikkinen, Gary Friske, Jim Kopas, Charlie Schnell, Paul Sadows, Dave Butler and Daric Deremo.

With the returning of old members and the addition of some new sophomores, the '64 tennis team should provide many thrills for its fans. When home courts are built and the enthusiasm of the fans mounts, the players will energetically try for even more victories in the new season.

Charlie Schnell, another valuable player, gets set for a quick return. Smashes like this one earned victories.

Underclassmen

Symbol of Growth, Physically, Socially,

Educationally, Are Thurston's Underclassmen

The Juniors and Sophomores who comprise the underclassman population here at Thurston are waiting for the day when they can proudly call themselves Seniors. While they are waiting, they are maturing to meet the challenge that the preceding class will be leaving them. These underclassmen contribute many pleasures to the life of the Thurstonite. The Sophomores who gave us that lovely Christmas Dance have participated in our school's activities with more enthusiasm than any other sophomore class. The Juniors were in charge of many activities although they will most be remembered for their beautiful Junior-Senior Prom at the Sheraton-Cadillac. This prom, which highlighted the year, had been planned by the Juniors the previous year and shows their spirit and ambition which is so characteristic of them. These Thurstonites, who will be leading the new underclassmen next year will set high standards to follow as they grow and mature into tomorrow's leaders.

Good Luck, Sophomore Class

All wearing booster hats sold by their class are the spirited sophomores. Behind their car is their prize float "The Mighty Eagles" which was awarded the brown jug

Entering a float in the Homecoming parade marks the beginning of a big chore ahead. Plenty of time, skill and energy is necessary if the finished deadline is to be met. The Sophomore Class met the deadline and walked off with the little brown jug. The name of their float, "The Mighty Eagles" only typifies the school spirit these underclassmen have shown.

High School life is bound to be confusing and frustrating in the beginning but these Sophomores have met the challenge with their first victory, the little brown jug. The determination, time, energy, thought and spirit which won them the jug only characterizes this class.

With hopes high and anxious, the votes were announced and the leaders of the Class of '66 are as follows: Tom Adamson, President; Janis Adams, Vice-President; Cathy Carroll, Secretary; Sue Spencer, Corresponding-Secretary; Marion Doone, Treasurer; and Linda DeLong, Parliamentarian.

The Sophomore Class has had many important projects facing them their first year here at Thurston, the most important being the supervision of the Christmas Dance. Other projects included building a prize winning float for the Homecoming parade, the selling of blue and white booster hats and also presenting booths at the carnival.

Spirited Underclassmen Cheer Mightily at Games

Students scurrying to catch their bus is a familiar sight after school. Those who stay after school because of clubs, sports or activities take the late bus at 4:00.

From junior high to high school is a big jump when one stops to consider that there are twice as many new students to get acquainted with, stricter rules, harder classes, more homework and more responsibilities. College and graduation are in the very near future instead of just a hazy idea.

The building of the school's new additions has not made the new Sophomores' first year here any easier. With congested halls, shorter lunch hours and crowded classrooms, the situation takes quite a bit of adjusting.

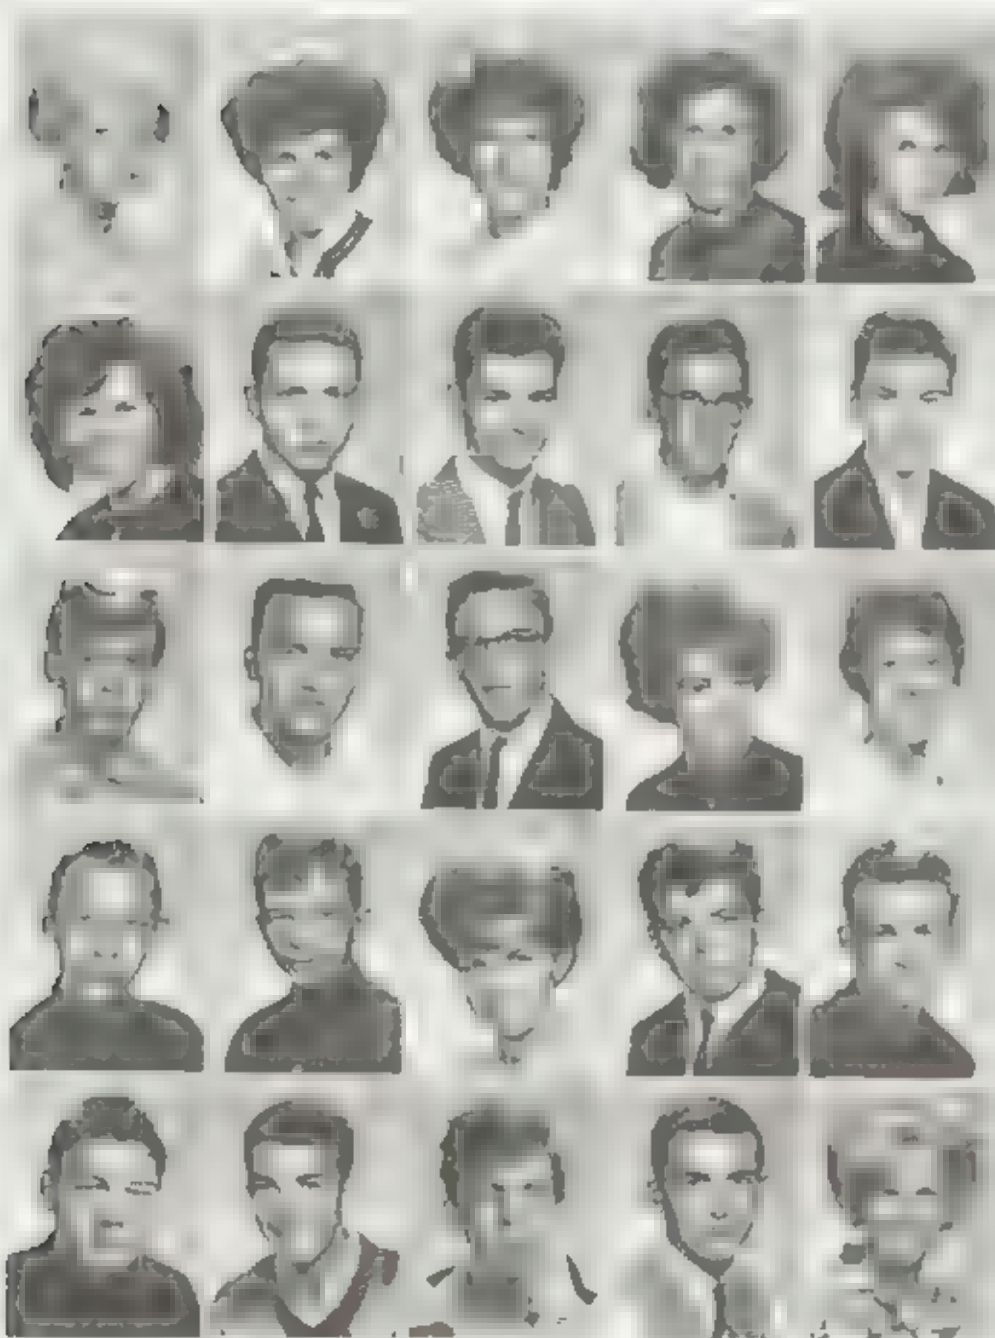

However, the class of '66 seems to have gotten right into the swing of athletics, dances, clubs and the other activities traditional of high school life at Thurston.

There will only be one class of '66 in the history of Thurston and these students now have one year behind them as they prepare for their junior year, anxious to be some of those upperclassmen, they also will have to work harder to live up to that name. To be respected among the students and gain a good reputation for our school should be their chief aims as a class.

Thurston's vast curriculum offers many departments lead by well-trained and highly capable teachers to develop the potential usually found in high school students. The vast number includes biology, chemistry, and shop to mention only a few.

In the fascinating biology room, John Bishop and Sue Moore put final touches on their six-week projects required soon

Each year the junior class puts on a carnival to raise money for the Junior-Senior Prom, a spectacle looked forward to by many, at the end of the school year. The Carnival not only has games and prizes but a fine variety show put on by the students.

Rapid Growth to Maturity Is Represented

by Hard-Working, Energetic, Fun-Loving Seniors

When a teenager faces his last year in high school, he discovers a sentimental attachment to the teachers and building. It will be hard to break away from the old tradition of hard work and fun which accompanies a day at school. Memories of fright and excitement fill a senior's mind as he thinks back to that first day in high school. The rooms and gym were so enormous and the thought of being a senior within two years was frightening. When the junior year came, it was easy to adjust to the bustling activities such as the Carnival, Prom and Homecoming. The sophomores and juniors look up to the Senior Class as an example of the growth and progress made through the high school years.

It was disappointing to find the lunch hour privilege taken away because of the increase in students. But the thrill of having a winning team made up for it. The one to represent the growth to maturity is a senior.

Year for Seniors

Your senior year is that magical year when graduation is in the very near future instead of just a distant dream. This year's graduating class, the class of '64, has provided us with a Homecoming Dance no one can forget. Under the capable leadership of President Al Bush, Homecoming '64 was a memory of Thurston that will linger with this year's graduates for the rest of their lives.

This year's Senior class officers are Al Bush (President), Judy Kostrick (Vice President), Char Fritz (Rec. Secretary), Mary Anne Buchanan (Cor. Secretary), Donna Bartosik (Treasurer), Carla Rice (Parliamentarian). These capable officers have served their class well

College-Bound Seniors Discuss

Future Plans After Graduation

Certainly, one of the highlights of the school year for the Senior Class, as well as for the Junior Class, was their meeting with Thurston graduates. This get-together, held in January, benefitted Thurstonites who are planning on attending college in the near future. Of course, most of the graduates were pretty proud to be returning as college freshmen. Michigan State, the University of Michigan, Wayne State, Western State, Central, Albion and many other schools were happily represented. Who says there's no difference between high school seniors and college freshmen? You can tell by their assurance and their pride in their new schools.

One of the greatest decisions facing each college-bound senior is where he will go to school. Some of the many questions were answered by the returning alumni.

With a Little Help From Senior Mechanics

Teen Mechanics Skilled in Shop, Prepare for Future

Hobbies or future vocations — neither are neglected in Thurston's Auto Shop class. Here students have the wide opportunities of exploring the world of mechanics. For the first time in a long time, one of the school's female students has applied herself and done quite well in spite of her stiff competition.

Mr. Lawrence Pack, the class instructor, sees to it that the classwork is kept interesting and lively, and that the students are kept busy and informed. Students are permitted to bring in their own cars on which to practice their varied skills, and this in itself can often be quite interesting. This class has truly been a success this past year.

Seniors Charlie Schnell, Gary Greenwell and Tony Gedeon demonstrate their skill concerning motors to underclassmen.

Full Fledged Eagle to Become Thurston's Mascot

Teaches Eagle to Fly

This red-shouldered hawk was discovered, dying of starvation, early this year by Coach Young. Since then he has become quite popular among the students. When the hawk spreads his wings to their full four feet, he catches the eye of many students and, when the weather is nice, he can usually be seen in the courtyard, surrounded by a crowd. Originally the hawk was used in an experiment in biology to determine the feeding habits of animals of prey. His two chief attendants are Jim Reinert and Paul May who take full charge of his feeding and training. The hawk now resides in the Detroit Zoo

Privileges Because of Constructions on School

Seniors Cheryl Koch and Margaret Provenzo are enjoying their lunch while conversing with friends. Love that lunch hour!

Cut Lunch Hour Rushes Lunchers

Because of the building of the new additions, there have been no senior lunch privileges this year. Rushed lunches mixed in with hasty lunchroom conversation replaces the relaxed noon hour of the previous year. The only consolation to this fact was that the last hour of the day ended a bit earlier. Crowded halls and classrooms did not make the seniors' last year at T.H.S. any easier although their spirit prevailed.

In our everyday lives, growth takes on many diversified forms. Statistically . . . increase in population of the world and our own township. Physically . . . the change in height of our fellow students, additions to our school. Naturally . . . change in attitude of students as the graduate faces a new world.

Growth also is taking place within the concerns of our patrons. Due to an increase in population and knowledge, there are more users of our patrons' facilities. As a result, the number of patrons and size of their advertisements increase from year to year; and, in turn our Vita becomes bigger and better.

We, the Vita staff, would like to thank our advertisers for their contributions which enable us to improve the Vita without greatly burdening you, the consumer, with undue expense. We also would like to express the wish that you will patronize these establishments and, thus, enable them to continue advertising in our Vita.

A Pleasure To Have Worked on '64 Vita Chef D'Oeuvre

As we close the '64 Vita, let me say only a few words expressing my deepest and most sincere gratitude to the many people who spent so much time and energy in helping to make this year's annual the best ever. It would be virtually impossible for one person to put out a book like this, which is why it is so important to have assistants like Judy and Sally who often gave up AFS meetings and Honor Society meetings to meet those most vital deadlines. Without the supervision of Miss Pellegrin, we may have gotten the award for the World's Worst Yearbook. Thanks to Miss Pellegrin's constant reminders we managed to get those layouts done, those pictures cropped and that copy written. Sally Myall helped to make this year's book possible by her fantastic job of selling ads. Without Mack and Lorraine Suprunowicz who put much time and effort into our book, the '64 Vita would not have been possible. Because of their guidance and suggestions, we're hoping for an award-winning book. It has been truly a pleasure to work on a chef d'oeuvre such as this with such wonderful people who made up our staff and those who willingly guided us.
